BANGKOK—SOUTHEAST ASIAN nations are set to create a landmark human rights watchdog this week, but critics charge it will be a toothless body that includes in its membership one of the world's most human rights officials—its ill-regarded former Myanmar.

Burma is seen to pose a burden against the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (Asean) holds its annual summit, underscoring the bloc's international standing and efforts to forge free trade areas with the United States and Europe.

Typhoon much stronger than 'Ondoy,' 'Pepeng'

By Edwin C. Tandoc Jr., Alvin Pags, Anna Pascual and Inquirer Northern Luzon

TYPHOON 'RAMIL' IS EXPECTED TO MAKE landfall in Cagayan at noon tomorrow and to dump more rain on storm-weary provinces, raising fears of more flooding and landslides.

Ramil International meteorologist estimated its strength has doubled since yesterday afternoon as it moved northwest from the Philippine Atmospheric, Geophysical and Astronomical Services Administration (PAGASA) said.

The Catholic Church called on Filipinos to offer a special prayer to spare the country from further devastation, while thousands of people were evacuated from some provinces to floods and landslides in northern Luzon ahead of the powerful typhoon.

The effect of Ramil would be minimal on Metro Manila and Central Luzon but parts of northern Luzon and Mindanao would also experience rain and winds.

"Ramil is expected to be a much stronger typhoon than the two weather systems we had in the last four weeks," said Pagan Rilo, the PAGASA director.

At 5 p.m. yesterday, Ramil was 250 kilometers east-northeast of Agaña, Cagayan, packing maximum winds of 195 kilometers per hour (kph) and gusts of up to 230 kph. It was moving west at 15 kph.

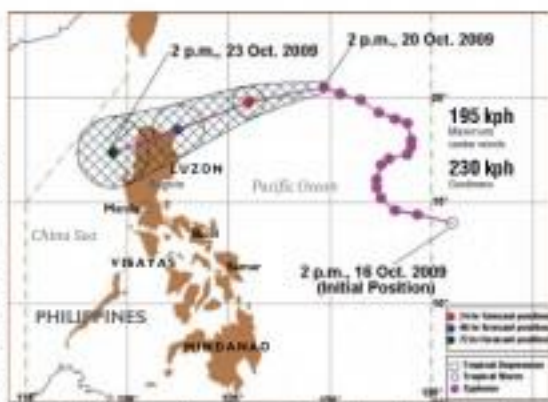

Pagan said the typhoon would have 440 km east of Agaña this afternoon, with peak winds of 195 kph and gusts of up to 230 kph.

Because of a high-pressure area in the Bay of Bengal, Ramil could not move northward from the Philippine Sea and would instead move westward, Pagan said.

As a result, Ramil would slow down and bring rain and winds to northern Luzon for up to 10 hours, he said.

The country is still recovering from back-to-back typhoons.

Palace: Go slow in damming dam

By TJ Bugarin and Gabriel Cardona
Inquirer Northern Luzon

MALACANANG YESTERDAY cautioned against overly strict rules in Pangasinan against damming the shoulders of the multi-billion peso

San Roque Dam, which they blamed for heavy flooding in their areas when Tropical Storm "Pepeng" hit earlier this week.

Undersecretary Lorido, Pajada said the agency will advise officials of National Power Corp. (Napco) that it was unable to decommission the San Roque Dam because it supplies the province and under arms with power and irrigation water. Napco manages the facility.

"We should assess what went wrong if there's indeed water."

By Marlon Reyes, Jule M. Arellano, and Juanette S. Andrade

FORMER PHILIPPINE NATIONAL Police Director General Eduardo Aguirre, chief of the Bureau Security Specialist Unit, yesterday defended the actions of the agency's 33 guards assigned to Greenfield 5.

He said his men could not be held for following the security firm's guidelines in dealing with the robbery on Sunday at the shopping mall in Makati City.

Aguirre also disclosed that Agila Land Inc. (ALI), which owns the Greenfield mall, explicitly asked for a "no armed encounter" policy when it hired the services of his family's security agency.

"How can there be a lapse in security when a robber was killed while sparring innocent civilians? Is that a breach of security guidelines?" Aguirre said.

Abus eyed in Sulu principal's abduction

ZAMBOANGA CITY—ARMED MEN WEARING Marine camouflage uniforms abducted the principal of a school in Patikul, Sulu, late Monday, police said yesterday.

Chief Supt. Amil Hassan said eight men stopped the van that carried Cecilia, 30, principal of Kungsi Elementary School, and several teachers were waiting to receive a group of 100 children at 4 p.m. but only the principal was taken away.

"We don't know why he was abducted. We terminated his duties in July and according to them, they wanted him to be released about receiving documents."

He said troops were pursuing 12 Abu Sayyaf members whom they believed kidnapped Cecilia.

"There is an operation to track down Cecilia," Hassan said.

Chief Supt. Amil Hassan said Cecilia was abducted by 12 Abu Sayyaf members, who he said were responsible for various attacks, including the abduction of school teachers.

"We allowed him to report to the division office instead of Kungsi," he said.

Classes at Kungsi Elementary School have been suspended. "For as long as we don't know the reason why these eight men were sent here, we cannot risk the lives of about 100 other teachers," Hassan said.

212 San Pedro evacuees taken ill after eating donated food

SAN PEDRO, LAGUNA—At least 212 evacuees showed signs of poisoning after eating food that allegedly came from a Christian group's feeding program here on Monday night, police said on Tuesday.

The victims, including 100 women, were rushed to the Alvarado Hospital in Marikina City at around 12:30 p.m. Monday after they started vomiting and complaining of abdominal pains, said PDI Ramon Jesus, San Pedro police vice commander.

He said 22 of the victims were transferred to the Alvarado Hospital in Marikina City, while at least 10 were brought to the Jose Y. Bual Memorial Hospital in Calamba City.

100 women in San Pedro, Laguna, made ill after eating donated food.

The victims were given anti-poisoning medicine and were later admitted to go home, Jesus said.

Chicken and egg

Quoting the local branch of the Alvarado Hospital, Jesus said the victims ate a packet meal of rice, chicken salad and hard-boiled egg.

He said the food came from the Christian Bible Society, which had been feeding a number of families from the evacuation center since Tuesday to attend a prayer service and feeding program at their church in Marikina City.

However, they again picked up some families at around 4 p.m. There were left-over food from the feeding program, which the victims took with them back to the evacuation center.

The victims belonged to families displaced by floods brought by Tropical Storm "Ondoy" in the villages of Lumban and Capal.

They were reportedly housed on the second floor of Bulacan Supermarket in Marikina City.

No leftover

Rev. Joe Carapian, Christian Bible Society District secretary officer, denied that the meals distributed during the feeding program were contaminated.

He also denied that the food was leftover. He said the group prepared 1,000 packet meals but that almost only 500 were consumed.

Police admit being helpless vs STL bookies

By Odell T. Mallari Jr.
Inquirer Southern Luzon

LUCENA CITY—ILLICIT GAMING OPERATIONS OF the state-run Social Games Lottery in Quezon province have been operating with impunity because the provincial police office is helpless against them, the province's top police official admitted on Monday.

Senior Supt. Elmer Francis Soriano, Quezon police chief, said he was could not just step in against illegal bookies because of a resolution from the National Police Commission (NAPCOM) that clarified the role of law enforcement in STL operations nationwide.

"Our hands are tied," said Soriano.

He said the NAPCOM required police to first secure a "written complaint" from local government units, local STL franchise holders, village or neighborhood groups before they could be made into illegal bookies.

He said illegal bookies exploit the same law that STL franchise holders had to secure before they could operate their franchise.

But Soriano said the NAPCOM is not a law enforcement agency. He said the NAPCOM is only a regulatory body that issues rules and regulations for the operation of STL.

who attended the church service. "We even ate the rice of the food packs. From our children we were brought and we brought this morning," he said, adding that his church member told him after eating the meals.

Soriano said there were other evacuees who attended the service and ate the meals but only those who came from Bulacan (PDI).

He said the victims from Bulacan may have been poisoned by other food. "Perhaps, because our food, was the last meal they ate, they thought that caused the food poisoning," he said.

Little Kibungan takes comfort in faith

How do we keep them alive?

By Marlene Malones
 La Trinidad, Benguet

MARLENE MALONES LOST a daughter, a son-in-law and four grandchildren, who tried to run to safe ground but learned that an avalanche of raging rain stole their sacred right of life. It was Tropical Depression "Tepeng" dumped heavy rain on the province.

Despite the tragedy, Malones' faith in God was stronger than the wrath of Tepeng, whose onslaught triggered a landslide that swept away houses along a creek in Benguet's Dagupan little Kibungan in Benguet's capital city of La Trinidad.

A three-story concrete house was also brought down some 200 meters into the La Trinidad Valley.

"How could my children and grandchildren suffer such a painful accident?" asks Malones, 56.

Although still mourning, she takes comfort in "the Lord's promise that my children and grandchildren are not new in this house and are now helping keep watch over us who survived this tragedy."

"They promise to enter continues to lighten our road and burden," says Malones, a member of the Church of Nazareth in Dagupan. "Now my children and grandchildren are at peace with the Lord. They are actually now in a better position than we are, who have experienced pain and suffering in this world."

Malones lost her daughter Brenda, 36, Malones' husband, Domingo Malones Jr., 39, and their four children—Barth Jr., 14, who lives in the house, 12, James Francis, 3, and Josh Mark, 1.

They were among the 70 people who were labeled the landslide in Little Kibungan.

Swallowed by mud

The valley house remains intact, but accounts from neighbors and from Barth Jr.'s text messages before they were swallowed by mud indicated that they were there for weeks as they waited.

In part 10 p.m. on Oct. 8, Barth Jr. was still in the house. He was a member of the Church of Nazareth and his father passed them from deep as they would evacuate to the evacuation center.

Neighbors say the Malones family has been in the house for a week now, but they have not been able to leave the house because of the mud. The house is now a pile of mud and debris.

The family would have survived the landslide had they gone down a road along the creek.

Mission and purpose

Despite all, Malones thanks God "with God, everything must have a purpose."

Malones and her family's death "will be a great strengthening of our faith in God and helped to look deeply into what is more important in life," says Malones.

This faith is shared by the women's edict on, Malones, 36, and her wife, Brenda, 36, who also had a close bond with their daughter. "God must have a mission and purpose for us that we have yet to fulfill," says Malones.

On Oct. 7, Malones said she had an "anxiety and feeling" in the night her husband and their family were taken away from their children in the basement, and he will their three children on the second floor.

The promisee saved them, the mud didn't wipe out their room. And the heavy disaster, the members agreed and guided them in the house of the Lord. The house was, however, in Little Kibungan.

Moving on

Malones, her two daughters and family two youngest children and two grandchildren left to live with her now occupying a space in the house of a friend in the valley.

The widowed grandmother under the mud is moving with local officials this week for a possible relocation site where they can rebuild their houses and lives. The state to find a place where her grandchildren could live with the state and state.

One of her grandchildren, Chris, 14, the youngest of the five children, is now in the state, the state. He would even want to go back to Little Kibungan and rebuild his things.

"Just get my school ID and school uniform. I don't have to get my other clothes because I have already received some clothes from relief supplies," Chris told his grandmother and mother.

Malones continued to care for his family's physical and emotional needs.

While looking for a job, Malones, a general teacher, was seen as a "laid back" in the state's community and vegetable farms.

"If they arrive to move on, until that is not back," says Malones.

"Lament, but I will not take it to God. He will reward me," she says.

Determination

The same faith and determination strengthen the faith of the people of Kibungan, in the state of the state, where Malones and family had lived.

Kibungan has been isolated since Oct. 9 because of mud and landslides that block major roads.

The state's health department, led by Mayor Benito Roldan, assured that the people will help maintain and reconstruct and have been clearing the roads with shovels and picks.

But as they wait, some, they have agreed to immediate food and medical equipment to repair damaged and washed-out roads, including a key bridge in the village of Roldan in the state's state.

'ONDOY' AFTERMATH

85% of establishments in Marikina City reopen

By OJ Yap

ALMOST THREE WEEKS AFTER Tropical Storm "Ondoy" crippled eastern Metro Manila, business is once again picking up in Marikina City.

Nearly 85 percent of more than 4,000 businesses and establishments damaged by Ondoy have resumed operations in the city, officials said yesterday.

According to the Business Permit and Licensing Office (BPLO), of the 4,240 local area establishments that sustained damage from floods that swept through the city, some 3,607 are now operational.

"The quick resumption of business operations demonstrates business faith in our city as well as the resilience that typifies Marikina," Mayor Marikina Fernando said in a statement.

Fernando said and the local shrimping industry had been particularly hit hard by Ondoy, especially the smaller manufacturers.

"I worry about the loss of jobs, especially the workers of establishments that closed down," she said.

Mandaluyong lawmaker's house robbed

By OJ Yap

THINGS WENT INTO THE HOUSE OF Mandaluyong Rep. Reynold "Reyn" Gonzalez 8 early Monday morning and walked away with P1.5 million worth of antique jewelry police said yesterday.

Senor Sagis, Carlos de Sagis, Mandaluyong police chief, said the theft occurred sometime between 1 a.m. and 7 a.m. at the upscale Park West Village.

Robbers were several pieces of jewelry from a cabinet on the second floor of the house.

De Sagis said the thieves went to the back of the house which did not have a gate.

"[They] did not enter the house, only the [cabinets]. [They] apparently used the accessible ladder at the back of the house to gain entry to the interior," he said.

The official said they would investigate some 200 construction workers who were at work in front of the Gonzalez residence.

De Sagis said they would also review footage taken by closed-circuit television cameras at exit entering and leaving the subdivision at the time the theft was believed to have taken place.

2 men get 14 years for killing neighbor

A QUINCY CITY COURT HAS CORRECTED the case of homicide after they ganged-up on their neighbors and authorities died in 2004.

The two men were sentenced to suffer up to 14 years and eight months in prison for the death of Ricardo Olney, a student of Mapayapa Village in Santiago Holy Spirit, Quamocin in April 2004.

In his opinion, the judge downplayed the defense of Tabares and Tabares that they were accomplices and when the victim was killed.

He pointed out that both men's wives were well-known women had identified them as among the members of a group which had abused the victim.

Court records showed that the witness, who lived for a time in the same house,

The man whose death has been ruled a homicide, was shot in the back of the head, where the victim was killed, was able to identify Tolson and Tamm as among the men who had attacked him.

Tricycle driver killed
A.M. NARAYAN, a tricycle driver who was engaged with a headlight on his vehicle, was reportedly shot in the head on Monday night at the Culture Center of the Philippines complex in Pasay City. The body of Emilio Naranjo, a resident of Pasay City, was found in a ditch behind the complex and loaded in his tricycle which had been parked beside the Film Center building. An investigation conducted by the Pasay City Police Station Investigation and Detective (Police Station) Section showed that a security guard named Nolasco Nolasco was driving the tricycle with two passengers of around 170 cm. After several rounds, the guard shot the head guard shots, prompting him and his co-workers to conduct an inspection of the area. They later found the body. Nolasco had his arms raised and was holding a gun.

'Balloon boy' hoax a warning to media

LOS ANGELES—JOURNALISTIC LESSONS FROM THE "BALLOON BOY" HOAX are likely to go unheeded by media outlets desperate to meet the voracious demands of the 24-hour news cycle, analysts say.

For several hours on Thursday, Richard Horne's publicity stunt costumed US air-traffic controller as the flying saucer-shaped balloon boy, based in the tiny town of Piquette, Mich.

At 4:45 a.m. the stunt was reported as a hoax, leaving many outlets unsure how they had been duped by a man who claims to be a descendant of alien and who once had a close encounter in a fast-food restaurant (Snugglers).

Horne—who police say contacted the town with the family in a bid to land a reality television show—had a well-documented history of eccentric behavior which doubtless given his wife's name, GENE, a boost.

"There were multiple influences that should have triggered at least yellow lights of caution," said Nancy Rife, viral journalism director at the Piquette Institute, a nonprofit journalism school based in Florida.

"The family's involvement in reality television, the mixed messages of the allegations—these factors should have required us to ask more questions and at least be more thoughtful about our response."

He said the fact that economy-wide restrictions were imposed interrupted their schedules to cover the story reflected the increasing emphasis given by media outlets to speed above accuracy.

"We have to acknowledge that speed has become much more of a factor in news coverage as opposed to understanding history and issues of accuracy and credibility," he said.

"A lot of media companies just want to be the first," he said as he noted his feelings about what they are reporting. Robert Thompson, director of the Center for Religion and Popular Culture at Syracuse University, said while there were lessons to be learned from the episode, they would likely be ignored.

"The balloon boy" story was a wake-up call to the media but it's a wake-up call that every single one of us is going to sleep through," he said.

"Everything like this happens the day after tomorrow. It will be covered in exactly the same way and we will watch it in exactly the same way," he said. "I'm a TV network in terms of a disaster signal from a news flying a plane over your life program with a white one and the hearing aids and the leading eye" he said. "Separation of 'balloon boy' we would have media chapters and centers on that plane in mind. We are small news on a 24-hour cycle of a story. We're in the first and six questions here." Thompson said the proliferation of television networks and different media purchases in the region of the network news cycle.

The truth about HAIRLOSS (and how to stop it)

Loosing more and more hair each day? A visible scalp, persistent hair fall or diffuse thinning can create a drastic change in your appearance or a serious blow to your self-esteem. Stop hair loss now. Find out about hair loss facts and proven effective solutions.

Thinning hair

Studies show that 20% of women could have thinning hair at age 25, 50% at age 30, 40% at age 45 and even a bigger percentage showing post-menopausal. The main culprit can be genetics or hormonal imbalance where hair production is blocked.

Bald patches and total hair loss

It's a medical fact that a woman's autoimmune system can mistakenly attack hair follicles and disrupt hair growth resulting in coin-sized bald patches or even total hair loss.

Hair fall

Researches show that stress, cold, birth, postnatal and other body disorders can suddenly shift countless hairs from growing to resting phase that could lead to severe hair fall.

THE EXPERTS' SOLUTIONS

32 new planets found outside solar system

PARIS—ASTRONOMERS announced on Monday the discovery of 32 new planets outside our solar system, some of them only a few times larger than Earth.

The relatively small size increased the odds that these so-called exoplanets could have conditions similar to the ones that give rise to life on Earth.

Selection made the finds using the High Accuracy Radial velocity Planet Searcher, or HARPS, the most successful low-cost planet hunter in the world.

The HARPS spectrograph is attached to the European Southern Observatory's (ESO) 3.6-meter telescope at La Silla, Chile.

The findings, presented at its exoplanet conference in Paris, Portugal, raised the number of known exoplanets to more than 400, a fifth of them—more than 100—potentially habitable.

Most are giant balls of toxic gas similar to Jupiter, and they would be inhospitable to life as we know it.

But 28 are so-called "super-Earths" with masses 20 times the size of Earth or less, and are thus probably rocky planets, the ESO said in a press release.

Whether any harbor conditions that life would depend on just where they orbit in relation to their stars.

Each one is a so-called "Goldilocks zone" where the temperature is neither too hot nor too cold for life to develop.

Each is believed to be about 4.5 billion years old, and the first about 300 million years older.

right to have lived water, the stuff of life.

HARPS was designed and built by a team from the Geneva Observatory led by Michel Mayor, who unveiled their most recent findings.

"We have now completed our initial four-year program, which has exceeded well beyond our expectations," says Mayor, a researcher at the University of Geneva, said in a statement.

So far, the planet-hunters have discovered 32 planets, with one as small as Mars.

As with the previously detected super-Earths, most of the new low-mass candidates reside in multi-planet systems, with up to five planets per system.

Other planets, even bigger ones, are small, hot, close-in planets, and can only be detected by measuring their impact on the movements of the stars they orbit.

The first exoplanet discovered—51 Pegasi b—was found in 1995, and the first super-Earth came to light in 2005.

Gliese 581c, the lightest exoplanet so far discovered outside our solar system, was spotted earlier this year.

Planet can be found from a disc of gas and dust debris left over from the creation of a star. Just how long this process takes is still a matter of debate.

Each is believed to be about 4.5 billion years old, and the first about 300 million years older.

World Bank to help in reconstruction

Agency to divert approved loans to vital infra projects

By Michael V. Sison

THE WORLD BANK WILL DIVERT SOME OF ITS LOAN ASSISTANCE for the Philippines to accommodate projects and programs aimed at helping the country recuperate from the devastation caused by the two recent calamities.

"We will utilize some of our loan proceeds for the Philippines to give priority to the urgent need for reconstruction," World Bank country director for the Philippines Dr. Hisham Zaid reported at the kick-off of the Philippine Business Conference last Monday.

Under the World Bank's Country Assistance Strategy (CAS) for the Philippines, it would allocate between $700 million and $1 billion worth of loans over the next three years.

Between mid-2009 and 2010, $400 million of the loans already allocated for various projects prior to the calamities would be realigned to fund projects for reconstruction.

Some of the new projects to be funded by the World Bank would be those involving agriculture and other infrastructure-related areas, he said.

"Projects like improvement of the irrigation systems for dams have been identified to be important," Hisham said.

The World Bank moreover said the lending institutions could consider increasing its loan assistance for the Philippines if the government would request for it.

In an earlier statement, Hisham said the World Bank would support initiatives to help the Philippines recover from the damage caused by Tropical Storm "Ondoy" and Typhoon "Peping."

State-owned National Development Corporation (NDC) said the World Bank would support initiatives to help the Philippines recover from the damage caused by Tropical Storm "Ondoy" and Typhoon "Peping."

President Mañalac Arroyo earlier said the World Bank and the Asian Development Bank would be asked if they would want to subscribe to the bond issue.

Hisham said the World Bank would study the proposal of buying some of the reconstruction bonds.

Globe offers rebates to typhoon victims

By David C. Denton

GLOBE TELECOM IS OFFERING rebates to affected mobile and broadband subscribers alongside a financial assistance program for local entrepreneurs, including business owners, such as those whose livelihoods were affected by Tropical Storm "Ondoy" and Typhoon "Peping."

About 1.6 million of its mobile phone subscribers and 14,000 broadband subscribers have been identified by the company as eligible for the rebate program. The rebates would be a "one of a kind" offer by Globe and first part of the "Bagong Pila" program, company president Leo said.

"Bagong Pila" is a program that seeks to help communities severely affected by the recent calamities through financial assistance, financial assistance, technical assistance and a series of community rebuilding activities.

Shirley Pila, vice president of the company, said the rebates would be a "one of a kind" offer by Globe and first part of the "Bagong Pila" program, company president Leo said.

program helps the full support and recognition of the government, the local government, Globe company subscribers and non-profit NGOs (non-government organizations)," he said.

"So we keep the Filipino spirit alive, but also recognize that we are a nation that is able to overcome this crisis," he added.

Globe rebates offer amounts from mobile service as identified prepaid subscribers and one-month free local broadband prepaid subscribers, the amount of which will be determined based on their household's financial status.

Subscribers will be given to broadband subscribers having Sept. 26 and the service in their area had been restored. Broadband subscribers will have the option to suspend their prepaid service for a period of one month to three months.

Using its database, Globe has proactively determined which SAs were eligible to benefit from the rebate program.

DOE plans to award 6 coal operating contracts

11 deals earlier granted to 7 firms

By Amy R. Rose

THE SECRETARIAT OF ENERGY (DOE) expects to award six more coal operating contracts next week under the fourth Philippine Energy Contracting Round (PECR) 2009, a government official said.

In a phone interview, Energy Undersecretary Ramon Alano Oza said the six coal contracts awarded were mostly in the form of:

"Typically, we could award the remaining contracts next week or at least by the end of the month. After that, we will start preparing for a contracting round for petroleum," Oza said.

He added that the target was for the DOE to be able to conduct the petroleum contracting round under the fourth PECR by November.

PECR is a public bidding round aimed at encouraging competition on terms in the country's energy sector. Those contracting rounds, which elaborate the country's potential areas for exploration and development, are expected to boost investment in the energy sector and help the country all imports as well.

Oza earlier said the government was planning to offer under PECR 2009 contracts for the exploration, development and production of at least six petroleum areas, located mostly in offshore Palawan, Iloilo and the Visayas.

Under the fourth PECR, the DOE has so far awarded 11 coal contracts to seven companies, with investments estimated to reach $500 million over a two-year exploration period.

Those contracts to explore and develop prospective coal areas in the country were awarded to seven firms: Global Energy and Power Generation Corp., Tico Exploration & Development Corp., M-M Coal Corp., J Baga Inc., Baga Mining Corp., Lehigh Mining Corp., and Gas Co. Inc. and M-M Mining & Exploration Corp.

The DOE earlier received 20 contract proposals from 14 companies under the PECR 2009 for coal, where 30 coal contracts were offered between May and June. These were on mostly within the coal and lignite of the Philippines, and many of which were submitted by the paper applicants themselves.

Xstrata raises Tampakan resource estimate

XSTRATA RESOURCES INC. (XSTR), THE LISTED unit of Switzerland's Xstrata Copper, yesterday said it had increased its estimate of the mineral resource at its $5.2-billion Tampakan copper-gold mine to 2.4 billion tons from 2.1 billion tons.

In a statement, SMC president Peter Howard said latest evaluation results confirmed Tampakan's position as one of the largest undeveloped copper deposits in Southeast Asia and its ongoing development potential.

The mine is now estimated to contain 12.5 million tons of copper and 15.8 million ounces of gold, at a grade of 0.8 percent copper and 0.2 grams per ton of gold. The company is currently on the Tampakan project to help secure its gold of extracting up to $14.5 billion in investment over the mining sector by 2014.

Howard said the company's vision was to complete the feasibility study in the first half of 2010 and on managing innovative specific studies and stakeholder engagement activities for the Environmental and Social Impact Assessment, which the company expected to complete next year.

"We are committed to advancing the Tampakan project in genuine partnership with the Philippine government and authorities, local institutions and our neighboring communities," Howard said. Amy R. Rose with a report from Reuters

Thinking out of the computer box

Should I repair or replace my ECU box?

By Teo B. Solano

Hundreds of car owners who suffered during Ondoy's passing still have to suffer some more.

FOR LACK OF AN ENGLISH phrase to stress the wrath (and it's well-deserved) of "Ondoy," we have to resort to the very vulgar to tell it exactly as it is: Putting screws already. Not even the vehicles of the Don Ramon Makid motorist protest were spared from Ondoy's onslaught Sept. 26, as when its destructive force was unleashed, Lawrence Robinson realized when the vehicle parked in front of the school never took shape in Goodness.

But that would leave the cars of Lawrenson's "new" nightmare. "When the flood subsided and all vehicles were being accounted for, he was indeed told a replacement for the engine electronic control system of a 1996-model 1.6-liter Mazda 323 sedan was. Lawrenson matched the shape and Mazda's bodywork, so he said. The loan asked to leave the loan replaced, but the loan's identity, he realized, was too fast to be used to be repaired.

There was nothing else to do but to transport the engine to the shop, a working ECU unit, and replace with that of the Mazda 323. However, Lawrenson found a Japanese-made engine and mounted the replacement. The rest of the engine including the ECU unit was not up to P23,000.

Adding insult to injury

Lawrenson's school isn't even the worst of them. Right now, hundreds of car owners who suffered during Ondoy's passing still have to suffer some more as they wait for their cars for their own ECU boxes, airbags, etc. to be repaired or replaced. There is where they fall prey to unscrupulous individuals who register on the owners' national identity, without adding insult to injury.

However, Lawrenson of Pinaric Motors in Pinaric Motors in Pinaric Motors, Makid, reveals how he was duped by a shop selling for half after Ondoy was their engine ECU boxes were all found when being replaced to have been repaired by mechanics selling their made-up. However, Lawrenson, however, he

Eco-cars galore in Tokyo Motor Show

By Charles E. Baker

TOKYO JAPAN—IT'S A strange twist, indeed, that the first time in so many years, the 50th Tokyo Motor Show opening this week, will only be participated in by, well, Japanese automakers.

There only "guest" will be the new European spread, so—Alfa Romeo and Lotus—who will be displaying their exotic rides.

Having global financial crises, the big American and European brands have decided not to participate in what has always been Auto's biggest and best, meaning thousands from the American States have decided to skip the event.

In fact, this year's edition of the motor show that will be held at the Makuhari Messe Paladium Hall in Chiba, Japan, until Nov. 4 will be the smallest since the show first started in 1954, admitted its organizers, the Japan Automobile Show-Organizers Association.

While it is in a way disappointing to see such a large number of international companies missing the 41st Tokyo Motor Show, it is nevertheless interesting to see how the Japanese automakers take their budgets of getting the industry get out of a slump.

Since Tokyo Motor Show has always been about advanced technological innovation, this year's edition is no different as Japan's top automakers have found big chunks of their total production alternative drives.

And looking at this week's line of vehicle presentation, it seems plug-in hybrid electric vehicles will dominate the roadside of the future.

Plugged

As their name suggests, plug-in hybrid electric vehicles are charged by plugging it to an electrical outlet, usually, each night at home, or during the workday in a parking garage. Mitsubishi Motors' made some "electric" noise early this year when the company rolled off its production version of the Mitsubishi i-MiEV. Electric vehicle is LEV2.

With several units of this luxury powered, economical, compact four-seater electric car now in Japan, it's only logical to expect other versions of this type of vehicle.

What model would be the Mitsubishi Concept PHEV, which is a plug-in hybrid electric vehicle styled as a crossover SUV/crossover.

E-tenders (two-seater four-seater) whose plug-in hybrid system is rated to deliver fuel economy in excess of 30 kilometers per liter.

But more than a high mileage vehicle, the crossover Concept PHEV also runs Mitsubishi's all-new Insignia All Power Control that features an electric-powered engine. The Concept, this enables the vehicle to automatically transfer torque to the rear left and right wheels when road conditions change for the worse.

Another interesting plug-in model that will be presented is the i-MiEV Crossover Concept, which offers a ride-damped suspension component at the rear.

Obviously, this plug-in hybrid vehicle is intended to serve a variety of requirements. For example, when maximum payload capacity is required, to deliver and other occasional purposes.

Lithium-ion equipped

Of course, the world's largest automakers will also be showing off their own version of plug-in hybrid vehicle as launched by their most recognizable, extremely vehicle model, the Prius.

Toyota Motors will be presenting the plug-in version of the Prius.

The plug-in Prius Concept's powertrain is similar in format to the Hybrid Synergy Drive used in current Prius, but with the additional hybrid battery pack replaced by lithium-ion batteries, which are smaller, lighter and are able to hold more charge.

The car's extended EV performance has a significant impact on emissions, with CO2 output dropping to less than 40g/km compared to the current Prius's 193g/km.

The Leaf is another interesting newcomer from Nissan Motors. A five-seater, hardback electric vehicle, the Leaf is classified by global laws and vehicle production by year 2010.

Nissan registered and designed the Leaf so it could be completely powered electric. Nissan is looking to build the Leaf into the zero-emission car.

The Leaf combines impressive fuel-saving system and innovative lithium-ion battery packs to enable it to deliver a driving range of more than 300 km in zero tailpipe emissions.

Nissan's automobile display will also focus on hybrid vehicles, which the company believes offer one of the most practical means of addressing environmental concerns at the

Multipurpose vehicles buck slow trend

The Definitive Issue D-MAX, the diverse conqueror of the toughest road condition, now comes with a dynamic and distinct exterior look. Accompanied with a timeless feature, a stylishly tough and reliable workhorse. An excellent adaptation of Quality and Style all found in the all-new 2010 Isuzu D-MAX.

By Miguel No

IT'S ONE SIGNIFYING OF THE AUTO-INDUSTRY that even the global recession has failed to hurt. Other vehicle types have suffered sales declines, but light commercial vehicles have proven quite resilient.

Based on the latest data from the Chamber of Automotive Manufacturers of the Philippines Inc. and the Truck Manufacturers Association, the LCV and trucks and buses segments were the only two vehicle categories that registered growth in the first three quarters.

The industry sold 27,045 units of LCVs in the January-September period, 5.9 percent more than the 25,513 units sold in the same period a year ago.

In September alone, LCV sales increased 21.4 percent to 4,266 units, versus September 2007's 3,514 units. September sales were also 2.8 percent better than August alone, which stood at 4,145 units.

"LCVs remain the strongest and most resilient segment compared to others, backed by demand for the popular pick-up trucks, vans, and compact wagons," a GMAT statement said.

The introduction of new models, backed by aggressive marketing campaigns and dealer incentive programs, helped boost sales for the segment.

All, of course, the Philippine environmental spirit should not be left out of the equation. The resiliency of the LCV used for both personal and business purposes has already won the hearts of the Filipino motorists.

Compact segment LCV sales are "unsaturated, if not increased" for the last quarter of the year.

Leading the LCV segment is Mitsubishi Motors Corp., which sold 8,477 units in the first nine months, for a market share of 23.9 percent.

A very close second, with a 23.7 percent share of the pie, is overall industry leader Toyota Motor Philippines Corp., with LCV sales reaching 8,771 units in the first three quarters.

For the rest of the year, GMAT president Elizabeto Cuevas expressed confidence that the fourth quarter would be a relatively good one across all vehicle segments, and that the industry's sales target of 125,000 units for the year would be achieved.

He said the industry would even expect a sales boost in the final quarter of the year, fueled by seasonality and implementation sales as an after-effect of Tropical Storm "Fengling."

"Although some new sales may come from vehicle replacement due to flooding, the industry is more focused on meeting needs and customers in steps to mitigate the economic effect of the storm on affected industries," he said.

Honda's aim is to convert 10.2 Concept 2009 segment; this belief is it because the world's first example of a dedicated sport hybrid concept.

Implementing a 1.5-liter gasoline engine paired in an advanced version of Honda's new well-known Integrated Motor Assist system, this hybrid vehicle is equipped with the world's first six-speed manual gearbox that Honda engineers have designed to overcome the low mileage possible while at the same time enjoying more fun into the driving experience of hybrids.

Spirited drive

But when it comes to spirited driving, this winner would probably be riding at the display of the F1 at the Circuit of Yaman.

A product of cooperation between Toyota Motors and Renault, the team-engineered, new design P100 Concept takes its inspiration from the Formula Renault 3.0's sporty soul of the 70s.

Toyota's R&D center studio in France did the P100 Concept's sleek body design while carrying a 2.0-liter, four-cylinder boxer engine of Renault. The boxer engine allows a much lower hood as well as lower center of gravity because that would be easily powered by P100 Concept drivers with a more spirited driving experience.

My five-year-old has cancer

By Jennifer Mendicino
Column Editor

But I wouldn't wish cancer on my enemies.

It's worse than dysmenorrhea, worse than labor contractions, worse than any headache known to man. It can stop you and your loved ones. Your heart just crumbles, your mind is gone. You feel like there's a knife around Can't leave a single mom like me helpless and paralyzed at the sight of my child's struggling pain.

Last night, like my five-year-old son, asked me to let him write to Coco to make the "owl go away I do this out of India and with his hat that, indeed, my kin does another time."

Joel Smalley has just been diagnosed with Stage I non-small-cell lung cancer (NSCL).

All is the kind that's rapidly developing. The doctor explained it to me as he copied the money in, standing by his body-lens. Smiling would be the right word. An excess of white blood cells is attacking all the other healthy cells in his body, mowing and siphon the antibodies otherwise.

I don't get it. I don't get how my beautiful baby girl, born with beautiful features, 10 toes, 10 fingers and who grew up with 20 beautiful teeth, can have cancer. I don't get how my son, who has pretty eyes, is cancer-ridden on his hands, and he is identified after he puts in his money. Close to be a surgeon, but with doctors and family (certainly I've been trying to share) close to the heart, believe me! And when he comes with childhood and teenagers, could be so ill. I don't get how a child born and raised by hundreds of my friends, school friends and family—loved even by strangers—would have this disease.

But I did benefit enormously from the important work of Jack Demeroutis. If this is a case

Worried for my shortcomings, my strongest is thinking I can know the trade of single parenting at the age I harbor for those who have been so. This is the biggest hurdle I have to fight. My children have missed their mother.

It's not about the equipment. It's not about how and it is, hands off me to drink (in, has anything to do with the education as a mother or my capacity to love. It simply is a little happening in my child's future and I will see to that future.

He is a bright boy with the longest locks in the whole wide world, who grows and shines in two dimensions—a far cry from a child's small-limbed dither and stick figure. He is the boy who dances to the beat of the drum and wears a tie on an untie.

The past three days have been a field trip for him. When asked how he's feeling, he said he's lenses held carefully empty. "I'm not sure," he first says. "The fact that people bother me hasn't even been actually bothering him. He just to show us that he is managing his anger and watching his mouth under the mask."

The author and her son Mic face the battle of their lives.

 But, he also to back his discomfort from the audience.

His knees felt sick and yet he wanted to stand in God in one evening proper for the way he wanted, for the times and the minutes that will help his soul go away. I have yet to give him the world I promised.

I think we'll all agree when I say Mr. DeWeese is an army to fight this war. For always thought I had forever with my little boy I used to imagine him as a gentle man... smart, healthy and handsome. I'll have to put those thoughts on hold and fight this battle now.

I need everyone to start the game of love on so my son...and all the other children in the world unjustly suffering the illness... could have a chance at a normal life.

I can only take it one day at a time. And today, if I have no errands outside and open a whole tomorrow bottle, I can only be sure my one has turned into an immersion of love and trust.

I can only pray the world is conscious fighting with me.
